Sudden cardiac death (SCD) and sudden cardiac arrest (SCA) are tragic consequences of cardiac disease in humans. The typical cause of SCD in adults is coronary artery disease, whereas the typical cause in children is due to congenital cardiac disorders. In these cases, structural or physical alterations to the heart caused arrhythmias, which usually lead to the sudden and unexpected death. These causes would be discovered when an autopsy was performed or, in the case of SCA, when diagnostic evaluation is done after the rescue of the individual. However, doctors noticed that there were a subset of these SCD instances where nothing could be found on the autopsy to explain the cause of death or the source of the deadly arrhythmia.

In humans, causes of SCD can be coronary artery disease, myocarditis, cardiac sarcoidosis, as well as several different types of cardiomyopathy (arrhythmogenic right ventricular, hypertrophic, and dilated). In the case of each of these, a cause for the arrhythmias can be identified either with clinical evaluation and testing (in the case of SCA where the individual was saved with the use of a defibrillator) or with an autopsy.

What actually kills these people or causes their heart to stop beating effectively is ventricular fibrillation or another abnormal cardiac rhythm pattern called torsades de pointes. Ventricular fibrillation is when a malignant arrhythmia causes the heart to stop being able to effectively time the electrical pulses that trigger the heart to pump. The result is a spasm or shallow vibration of the heart muscle in the area of the large pumping chambers of the heart. Torsades de pointes is also a type of arrhythmia that keeps the heart from pumping effectively by causing the heart’s electrical system to flip poles repeatedly.

When a person dies suddenly from SCD, yet there is no cause for the ventricular fibrillation found, the cause is termed Idiopathic Ventricular Fibrillation (IVF). The cause of death remains an unknown ventricular fibrillation unless some other cause can be found.

As time has passed, and science has advanced, molecular explanations for these SCDs caused by IVF were found. They were termed “channelopathies.” Where a cardiomyopathy is a disorder of the heart muscle, a channelopathy is a disorder of the ion channels. These ion channels are like gateways that let a specific type of ion either enter or exit the heart cell. The ions involved are sodium, potassium, calcium, and chloride. These ions are important for the production of cardiac rhythm and the heart’s ability to contract. Abnormalities in these ion channels can lead to arrhythmias.

Not all arrhythmias mean there is underlying heart disease. The causes of arrhythmias are varied and, besides the channelopathies and the heart diseases mentioned above, they can include the following: valve disorders, injury from a heart attack or healing after heart surgery, high blood pressure, electrolyte imbalances, certain drugs (prescription, over-the-counter, and supplements), alcohol and substance abuse, diabetes, hyperthyroidism, excessive coffee consumption, and stress.

Until 1957, with the identification of Long QT Syndrome (LQTS), there was no definite cause identified for IVF. LQTS was the first channelopathy discovered. The next channelopathy to be described was Catecholaminergic Polymorphic Ventricular Tachycardia (CPVT) in 1978, followed in 1992 by Brugada Syndrome (BrS) and in 2000 by Short QT Syndrome (SQTC). More recently, in 2013, Early Repolarization Syndrome—first regarded as a benign finding—was discovered to increase a person’s risk for ventricular fibrillation and SCD. Now, Short-coupled Torsades de Pointes/ventricular fibrillation has been identified as a risk factor for SCD. As new channelopathies are identified, the percentage of ventricular fibrillation that can be called IVF is decreasing.

While we have more potential identifiable causes for SCD in humans than we once did, this does not mean the causes are easy to find. Look at the span of years between the identification of the different channelopathies in humans listed above. The first: LQTS was described in 1957. The next one, CPVT, was not identified until 1978, more... than 20 years later. The next, BrS, took 15 years more to identify. From this, it is easy to see that some channelopathies are easier to identify than others and even the most obvious ones can be devilishly tricky to diagnose. Still, in many cases, the hallmark indication that you are dealing with a channelopathy is when there is a sudden, unexplained death, typically of a young person (under 40-50 years of age) with an autopsy that can give no explanation as to the cause of death.

In fact, the SADS Foundation (Sudden Arrhythmic Death Syndrome) lists the following situations that should cause a family or doctor to suspect a channelopathy.

1) a young person in the family with unexplained sudden death, unexplained seizures, or unexplained fainting.
2) a family history of unexplained sudden death, unexplained fainting or unexplained seizures, usually in young people.
3) when the autopsy is normal following the unexplained sudden death of a young person.

Typically, channelopathies have few symptoms, if any. Oftentimes, SCD is the first and only symptom of the disease and, as listed above, should stimulate an investigation into the possibility that other members of the family are also at risk of SCD.

Some individuals, however, may have episodes of fainting. Depending on the type of channelopathy, fainting may occur during times of stress or startle, during exercise, or from auditory stimuli (such as door bells or phone rings). These fainting episodes are caused when an arrhythmia triggers the heart to enter the chaotic electrical state of torsade de pointes, but the heart returns to a normal rhythm rapidly. These fainting episodes can be distinguished from other types of fainting by their suddenness and lack or warning (no dizziness or feeling of being unwell precede these fainting episodes). Also, the individual recovers quickly and typically returns to their regular activity without ill effect (though some may be slightly weak).

Other individuals may suffer from seizures. These seizures are caused by a prolonged time when the heart is in the torsades de pointes dysrhythmia. Again, eventually, the heart corrects itself and returns to a normal rhythm, ending the seizure. In fact, some people with arrhythmias have been misdiagnosed with a seizure disorder.

However, if the torsade de pointes dysrhythmia lasts too long or degrades further into ventricular fibrillation, the person will die from what will be described as SCD.

Diagnosis can be difficult when a channelopathy is suspected and different channelopathies offer a variety of challenges to diagnosis. With Long QT Syndrome, diagnosis may take multiple ECG’s, exercise stress testing with ECG, an epinephrine QR stress test, and genetic testing. This type of channelopathy tends to cause arrhythmias during or after physical exertion (especially swimming), emotional excitement, or sudden auditory stimuli (such as alarm clocks). However, some types of LQTS tend to cause arrhythmias during rest or sleep.

Catecholaminergic Polymorphic Ventricular Tachycardia (CPVT) is best identified through a treadmill stress test or a catecholamine provocation test since resting ECGs in these patients are usually normal. CPVT differs from Brugada Syndrome (BrS) which tends to produce abnormal resting ECG’s or abnormal rhythms when the affected person has a fever or during sleep. For BrS, multiple ECGs may be needed as the arrhythmias in this channelopathy come and go. An ECG done during a fever or a drug provocation study can typically elicit the classic arrhythmia seen in BrS.

Short QT Syndrome (SQTS) can be difficult to diagnose because many affected individuals have a QT interval that falls within the normal range; however, the mechanism that leads to this arrhythmia is still present and puts the affected person at risk of SCD.

So what does this all mean to Borzoi?

First, we know something is causing apparently-healthy Borzoi to suddenly drop dead. The question is, what is causing these deaths? We also know that there is dilated cardiomyopathy (DCM) in the breed and I am aware of one case of hypertrophic cardiomyopathy (HCM) confirmed by necropsy. We know that both of these diseases can cause sudden death in an animal that appears completely healthy. This is because, as the heart muscle changes due to the action of the disease, arrhythmias arise. These arrhythmias precede measurable changes to the heart muscle, sometimes by several years. These arrhythmias have the potential to kill the dog suddenly.

Because we know there is DCM and possibly HCM in our breed, even if we had no other information, we must assume that some of the sudden deaths are due to these disease processes. We do know DCM can cause SCD in Borzoi based on the information provided to the Borzoi Arrhythmia Project from breeders/owners who shared the necropsy results of several SCD Borzoi.

But is this true for all of the Borzoi sudden deaths? Are they all caused by occult cases of DCM or HCM? We suspect not, though we are not completely sure yet. It will take a bit more time to see if some of the dogs who are in our study are diagnosed with DCM or HCM over time. Other necropsy results shared with the Borzoi Arrhythmia Project have shown nothing to explain the cause of death. This would suggest that at least some of the SCD we have seen in Borzoi could be due to ion channel defects.

If indeed some of the Sudden Cardiac Death we are seeing in our breed is due to a channelopathy, what can we learn from human medicine? First, until a genetic test is found (and that is our ultimate goal), we must be open with each other and willing to share information. Many stalwart breeders have already spent their own money and time to help us solve this problem. This is helping us better understand how Borzoi Holter test results differ from those of other breeds. It also helps us understand the complexities of the Borzoi heart.

Why is sharing information about dogs in your pedigree that have dropped dead, fainted, or had unexplained seizures so important? Because, as the SADS Foundation points out, one of the indications that there is a channelopathy in the family is the presence of a family history of sudden death, unexplained fainting and/or seizures. We MUST share this information so that breeders do not accidentally double up on this problem.

By looking at the different channelopathies that impact humans, it becomes apparent that these ion channel diseases of the heart can be very difficult to define and identify. It can be done, but dedication and perseverance are the key to success. This means that Borzoi breeders and owners may have to be patient and persistent if we are going to be able to identify the cause of Sudden Death in Borzoi and, ultimately, secure a genetic test for the problem.

Until we are able to finish the Borzoi Arrhythmia Project, what is a breeder to do? How do you avoid sudden death in your dogs? First, never assume. Never assume the cause of an unexpected death. Do a necropsy! Verify the dog died of a broken neck, bloat, a ruptured aneurism, DCM, or whatever it is you believe killed the dog. Know what you are dealing with; never assume. If there is nothing from the necropsy to suggest a cause of death and the pathology that comes back from heart samples is similarly unrevealing, then you must realize that what you have is a SCD, possibly due to a genetic arrhythmia. If you cannot rule out any of the non-genetic causes for a SCD, then you must realize that, more than likely, what killed the dog is some form of IVF. Once you know, let people know this happened. The last thing anyone should do is breed two dogs that are at risk for SCD together. We all depend on the openness of each other to help prevent such a breeding from happening.

Also, should one of your Borzoi faint or have a seizure, do not forget that the cause may be an arrhythmia. Take your dog to a cardiologist for an examination and make sure to do a Holter test on the dog. Remember, one Holter, one ECG does not remove a cardiac problem from consideration. Human channelopathy diagnosis can take multiple ECGs or Holter tests before the arrhythmia is found. Sometimes the ECG or Holter must be done when the person is stressed, or has a fever, is exercising, or is startled. Try to recreate the situation that preceded or was occurring when the fainting episode or seizure happened.

If you are concerned about SCD in your lines, when you Holter your dogs, try to produce as wide a variety of activities as possible while the dog is being Holtered. Make sure they run full out. Try taking your dog to a lure practice during the Holter test (just make sure it is cold enough for them run with that vest on without overheating). Make sure the dog also has a deep rest period during the Holter. Try getting your dog to jump up and down. If you have your own Holter, try testing a dog when it has a fever.

How do you avoid increasing the risk of Sudden Death in your lines when you breed your dogs? Research. Refer back to the SADS Foundation list of when to suspect SCD in a family. Use that list. Did a young dog die suddenly and for no apparent reason in that family? If a person gives you a cause of death, was a necropsy done? If not, there truly is not a known cause of death. Any cause of death without a necropsy is an assumption. Have there been cases of fainting or seizures that are unexplained in that family?

Demonizing bloodlines for an assumed problem that we do not fully understand will do much more to damage our breed than it will help. Work with each other; help each other; make the best rational breeding decisions you can. Use what you know about breeding good dogs to breed away from the problem while preserving what is good in your dogs and all Borzoi bloodlines. Make use of the inexpensive Holter rental available to BCOA members and get the results interpreted by a cardiologist. Contact the BCOA Health Committee if you have a SCD, fainting, or unexplained seizure episode in one of your dogs so we can track suspected events for the Borzoi Arrhythmia Project. Proving that SCD in Borzoi is familial is one of the crucial criteria that must be met if we are to have a genetic marker study. Remember, maintaining the breed’s good health depends on your actions, decisions, and focus. Be a breed steward, help us solve the SCD problem in Borzoi!

The first person listed as the dog's owner by AKC must be a BCOA member to be included. To be ranked #1 overall at year's end, a dog must have at least 3 QS from the regular classes and all QS from the regular classes will be averaged for that dog. To be ranked #1 in any particular class at year's end only 1 score is needed. The 2nd Qtr had ONLY virtual scores and only from Rally Novice.

Started in 2016 was the offering of an OVERALL #1 dog in rally. Same rules apply to rally as to obedience. A minimum of 3 scores are needed to be the OVERALL #1 dog. All of the dogs scores from the REGULAR rally are averaged so if a dog competes in more than level all of his scores are rolled into one. Just like obedience, only 1 score is required to be #1 in any given class.

MBIF DC Aliza at Zoiboyz Rosa Wetro SC LCM GRC GCG TKN

Despite a career-ending injury in 2019, Aliza is not done collecting titles! She learned to crawl, among other skills, sufficiently well to warrant a novice trick title. Once she delivers her pups, she’ll be working to add more titles. It’s fun, she says!

Dreamer (2 years) is a delightful combination of intelligence, poise, and beauty. While we are still training for Open, we did her Trick Dog titles. She is a big help around the farm with the goats and retrieving eggs for me, and I am very fortunate to share my life (and tea time) with her.

Showing Borzoi in 1960

Compiled by KC Artley, from the AKC Gazettes, the BCOA Aristocrats, BCOA meeting minutes, and show catalogs.

NOTE To the members: In the future, how much of this kind of history, do you want kept? Please email kcartley@earthlink.net with your comments.

General
In 1960, there were 551 obedience trials. In obedience, the Novice A class was often the largest entry, reflecting how many new people were starting obedience. A trial in California in August had 68 competing in Novice A.

In 1960, there were 459 all-breed conformation shows, 392 independent specialty shows (none for Borzoi), and 304 specialties at all-breed shows (3 Borzoi specialties). Borzoi were ranked 53 out of 114 breeds with a total of 698 class entries and 46 entries of Champions.

Champions were not called Specials. Specials referred to what we today call Challenge Trophies. 233 shows had at least one Borzoi shown and Borzoi placed 1st in the Group 8 times, 2nd 11 times, 3rd 15 times and 4th 9 times (per a BCOA report).

There were 16 breeds eligible to compete in the Hound Group. Of the shows with Borzoi, often there was only 1 Borzoi shown, or a single class male and a single class bitch shown. When a class male or bitch beat a special for Best of Breed or Best Opposite Sex, there were no additional points awarded. A single male often went Best of Winners for points. A single class bitch rarely went Best of Winners for the points.

The Schedule of Points for all regions, for Borzoi in 1960, was the minimum: 2 for 1 point, 3 for 2 points, 4 for 3 points, 5 for 4 points and 6 for 5 points (same for both sexes).

In 1960, 875 people were listed as AKC registered handlers. The biggest shows in the USA were the International Kennel Club of Chicago with 2233 entries, followed by Westminster, Harbor Cities CA, Santa Barbara CA, KC of Philadelphia, Westchester NY, Santa Valley CA, Del Monte CA, Golden Gate CA, Orange Empire CA.

1960 had 148 Borzoi registered. Borzoi were ranked 71 out of 114 breeds.
